TOPICS IN CALIFORNIA.

COLLAPSE OF THE STRIKE-MELVILLE'S STEALINGS-DRIED FRUIT OUTPUT.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] San Francisco, July 28.-The great railroad strike came to an inglorious end this week. It was the most complete failure ever seen here. When the collapse occurred at Chicago a fortnight ago, the policy of wisdom would have been for the California strikers to acknowledge their defeat and end the struggle. Instead, the Sacramento crowd hung on for several days and then surrendered unconditionally, while the Oakland gang actually had the nerve to issue proclamations and go through all the forms of real fight until Thursday. Then their leaders became consclous of the absurd part they were playing, and declared the strike off. Now the only trouble on the Southern Pacific system is at Dunsmuir, on the Oregon line, where militia are stationed to guard against any designs by a reckless gang. The railroad company has taken back the good men who were forced to stop work, but who did nothing to encourage the strike or to destroy property. The blatant agitators will have to emigrate to other States, as they are blacklisted

The flight, capture and confession of Collection Clerk Melville, of the Bank of California, has furnished one of the week's sensations. The bank officials declared after careful examination of his books that the trusted clerk had stolen only $2,700, and that temptation had come to him through paralysis of the mails due to the strike. When Melville was arrested he amazed every one by confessing that he had stolen systematically for twelve years, his total thefts He kept his collections behind one day and as be on duty every day, whether ill or well, and when the strike came he saw concealment was hopeless much longer. The curious feature of his case is that he spent his stealings in good living

The trial of the bank-wrecker, Richard H. McDonald, jr., has gone over to September, but this week a complaint was filed charging that $400,000 in the Pacific Bank accounts. McDonald's health is failing in jail and it may be that he will not live to stand trial. His brother, Frank, is safe in Japan and will take good care not to come within the jurisdiction of American rival attorneys for control of the two banks and the swindled depositors furnish a deeply interested audience.

Two large buildings has and his family. New will remain through October, which is the best part will be erected at the Potrero, one for classrooms and drawing, and the other for workshops. The school ought to accomplish much good, as a trade will save many boys from hoodlum life.

John Drew and Maud Adams have scored a great hit in "The Masked Ball," which has been played to crowded houses at the Baldwin all the week.

The State Board of Trade will open next week at No. 575 Market-st. an elaborate exhibit of the resources and products of California counties. Crowds are coming daily, and everything points to The nucleus of this display comes from the Midwinter Fair, but many novel and striking features have been contributed by several counties. The object of the display is to show visitors what are the characteristic products of every county, and for this purpose a study of the display will be almost equal to a tour of the State. No one coming here to buy land or to establish any in-dustry should neglect this display.

nearly double that of any previous season. This is due largely to the failure of growers to ship any fresh fruit East because of the railroad blockade. California dealers are holding for 10 cents a pound, but Eastern offers don't exceed 7 cents. The dried peach crop will also be much larger than usual for the same reason. Large shipments of fresh fruit are now being made, as the railroads are in condition to handle all fruit offered. It was a great piece of good fortune for fruit growers and the railroad companies that the season was so late, as peaches and pears that usually ripen early in June are just maturing.
